The incidence of food allergies around the world is increasing.

More than 8% of children and 2% of adults in countries such as Australia and New Zealand are allergic to one or more foods.

Provision of allergen information for consumers is an important and complex matter, with specific legal requirements as set out in the Australia New Zealand Food Standards Code.

If you are involved in supplying products and services to the food industry, you would benefit from advertising online in the Allergen Bureau Services Directory

Managing food allergen risks in industry

The Allergen Bureau is an industry body established in 2005 as an initiative of the Australian Food & Grocery Council Allergen Forum, and operates on a membership basis. The Allergen Bureau provides rapid responses to members' questions concerning the management of food allergen risks in food ingredients and manufactured foods in Australia and New Zealand.

The core objective of the Allergen Bureau is to share information and experience within the food industry on the management of food allergens to ensure consumers receive relevant, consistent and easy to understand information on food allergens.

Almost 20% of visitors to the Allergen Bureau website come from North America (Canada and USA) and over 10% from Europe. These visitors include representatives from food industries in these countries as well as research groups and consumers.

The growth in the incidence of food allergens is an international phenomenon. The Allergen Bureau draws on and disseminates information from all over the world on food regulations and the latest scientific research on food allergens including emerging food allergens.

The Allergen Bureau is a wonderful example of cooperation amongst competitors in the food industry, with national and multinational food manufacturing and marketing companies, suppliers, importers, exporters, retailers and consumer groups sharing information on managing the risks of food allergens in industry in the interests of consumers.
